Jim Collins: There is a direct relationship between the absence of celebrity and the presence of good-to-great results. Why? First, when you have a celebrity, the company turns into “the one genius with 1,000 helpers.”

Jim Collins - Articles - Good to Great

“The good-to-great leaders never wanted to become larger-than-life heroes. They never aspired to be put on a pedestal or become unreachable icons. They were seemingly ordinary people quietly producing extraordinary results.” — Jim Collins, Good to Great: Why Some Companies Make the Leap... and Others Don't

Good to Great Quotes by James C. Collins

However, Jim points out that the Good to Great companies don't pursue new technologies unless they fit in with their hedgehog concept. That is, if the new technology is unrelated or will provide no new opportunities then they will not spend time on it. “Technology is used by good to great companies as an accelerator, not a creator of growth.
